1 SITE, 8 WEEKS, 3000+ GRADUATE ARTISTS, 50+ ART & DESIGN SHOWS, 170,000 VISITORS
400,000 sq ft OF EXHIBITION SPACE, 500 METRES FROM THE HEART OF THE CITY...

Welcome to the ninth annual Free Range, Europe's largest graduate art & design show; making art accessible...

With unadulterated access to the UK's freshest new art & design, set over 400,000 square foot of exhibition space at The Old Truman Brewery in the creative hub of East London, Free Range presents the work of over 3,000 graduates from 40 of our finest art & design colleges, from 29th May to 20th July 2009.

Whether art expert or complete novice, Free Range is an exciting & free event open to everybody. It is the social, all-embracing qualities of Free Range that mark it out so distinctly from other art & design fairs. This vibrant & relaxing event is a celebration of the UK's latest talent.

Graduates from the disciplines of Art, Photography, Design & Interiors from universities across the UK will be showcasing their work. Weeks one & two of Free Range are dedicated to design, followed by two weeks of photography, two weeks of fine art, one week of interiors (including the launch of the new IE show featuring 17 courses) & finally a mixed media week.

The concept of Free Range is multi-faceted. As the name suggests, the event presents artwork that is original & organic, that goes against the homogenous grain. It is also a chance for young people to display their work in a professional environment - the public has direct access to both the exhibits & the exhibitors, something that is rare for both the creators & the viewers.

Free Range's success has seen it grow from year to year - hugely popular with collectors, students, universities, employers, media, industry luminaries & everyday art lovers, last year the event attracted a record 170,000 visitors.

The Old Truman Brewery on Brick Lane is a natural backdrop for the event - a site steeped in history but which embraces the future. The many cafés, bars & restaurants in the Old Truman Brewery & the surrounding area provide the perfect place to unwind after visiting the exhibitions.

Together with its partners, London Graphic Centre, theprintspace, Dazed & Confused, Grafik & British Journal of Photography, Free Range supports a new generation of artists & designers, giving them the opportunity to present their work, perhaps for the first time, to the public.

Be the first to spot the next Damien Hirst, engage with the creators of the work you see, buy your own exclusive piece of art - Free Range is a great free day out.

The ethos promoted by the BA [Hons] Fine Art course at The Arts Institute at Bournemouth is distinctive because of its broad-based approach to learning & teaching, its recognition of the importance of contemporary critical discourses to fine art practice & its emphasis on the development of professional skills.

On 1st July 2009, the institute will officially change its title to the Arts University College at Bournemouth.

The Old Truman Brewery

BREWERY

A Routemaster bus becomes a candlelit restaurant, striking street art adorns once industrial walls, an enclave of London's best bars, cafes and restaurants weaves a path past hip boutiques, salons, cutting-edge gallery spaces, a retro-themed bowling alley, and through buzzing markets full of undiscovered treasures: The Old Truman Brewery offers inimitable retail, leisure and commercial spaces for an open and diverse community.

Spanning an 11 acre site in the creative heartland of East London, The Old Truman Brewery is a model of sensitive regeneration; over 14 years of careful development it has given a fresh vision to a historic setting. The skeleton of the former Brewery is still palpable, but the derelict, neglected warehouses have been transformed, attracting businesses and visitors from far and wide. The versatility of the Old Truman Brewery means the landscape is constantly evolving, bringing exclusive exhibitions, fashion & design shows, film crews and event organisers to the site week after week.

Renowned in particular for its creative edge, The Old Truman Brewery is home to leaders in fashion, art, design and media, resulting in a line up of independent, unique outlets run by free-thinkers and pioneers. No matter when you stop by, there is sure to be something at the Old Truman Brewery to explore and enjoy.

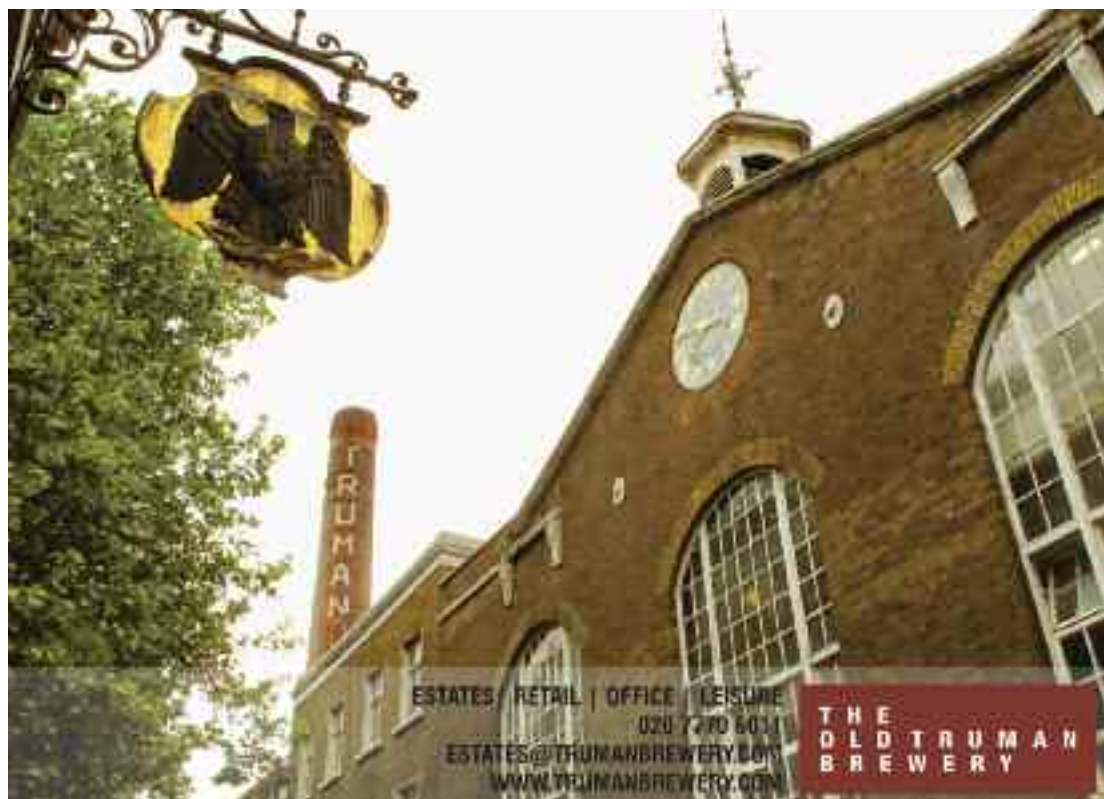

With the bijoux air of a small quartier and the energy of a large cosmopolitan city, the enigmatic charm of The Old Truman Brewery defies definition, but it remains a fascinating and exciting hub of fresh discoveries.
